

I feel that cell phone use is fine in an environment where individuals can choose to leave if phone conversations annoy them. In the very confined spaces of an aircraft, it's not possible to get away.

Personally, I find the quiet of an aircraft journey very soothing and contemplative. It would be great to keep it that way.

Thanks for the opportunity to comment,

Simon Austin.